Newly Reformatted SeaTac Zoning Code

On December 8, 2015, the SeaTac City Council adopted the reformatted SeaTac Zoning Code (Ordinance 15-1018), which has replaced the previous code in its entirety (except for SMC 15.41, Interim Angle Lake Station Area Overlay Standards).

The reformatted code is available on-line as part of the SeaTac Municipal Code at: www.codepublishing.com/WA/SeaTac/.

Frequently Asked Questions

- What has changed in the code? The zoning standards and requirements are the same, only the organization and numbering system in the document were changed.
- Why did the City make these changes? Changes were made to streamline the code and make it easier to use for the public and staff.
- How will the reformatted code affect development projects? They won't; zoning standards and requirements remain the same, although the location and reference number for certain provisions may have changed.

For more information, please contact Kate Kaehny, Senior Planner, 973.4750, or kkaehny@ci.seatac.wa.us, or see the City's zoning web page at: www.ci.seatac.wa.us/zoningcode.

Interstate 5 - 320th to Duwamish River Bridge Project

In the next few months, Washington State Department of Transportation (WSDOT) will begin an important 18-month highway preservation project along roughly 13 miles of southbound Interstate 5 (I-5) between Duwamish River in Tukwila and South 320th Street in Federal Way. Work will include overnight and weekend lane closures, and is scheduled for completion fall 2017.

WSDOT project design and construction offices have worked to find the best options to limit the impact of this project on local cities, businesses, freight operators and drivers. Most of the work will be done during overnight lane closures. To complete some of the work, up to six full weekends with multiple-lane closures will be necessary.

Below is a list of the types of work that will be done on the section of I-5 that is in or near SeaTac:

- "Crack and seat" Break up old pavement, pack it down and repave with eight inches of asphalt.
- Replace broken concrete panels.
- Pavement removal and replacement.
- Installing concrete to replace asphalt between the I-5 overpasses at SR 518 and I-405.
- Grinding to improve traction.

Just to be clear, WSDOT won't be doing all of these to the entire interstate in and near SeaTac. In some places it will be just grinding; in others they will replace concrete panels, etc. Visit the WSDOT project webpage for more information.
