

Construction alert: South 200th Link Extension

Jun 7, 2016

Intersection Improvements at Military Road and S 200th Street begin this summer

Sound Transit has partnered with the Washington State Department of Transportation (WSDOT) to improve the intersection of Military Road at South 200th Street. This intersection will be widened and realigned with new traffic signals to allow for easier motorist travel between I-5, the future Angle Lake light rail station, and other City of SeaTac destinations.

Map of the construction area.

What to expect:

- The intersection will be rebuilt in phases to minimize impacts to the traveling public.
- Motorists should expect travel delays during construction on South 200th Street, Military Road, the southbound I-5 off-ramp to South 200th Street/Military Road, and the South 200th Street/Military Road on-ramp to southbound I-5 with increased delays during weekday commuting hours.
- Lanes may be reduced during construction. There may also be periodic I-5 ramp closures at this location. Signage and flaggers will help motorists and pedestrians get safely around the work zone. Ramp closures will be announced in advance using electronic message signs.
- Typical work times will be between 7 am and 5 pm on weekdays and nighttime work will also be happening. The City of SeaTac has approved a noise variance for nighttime work for this project.

- Expect noise from equipment breaking up and removing existing sections of asphalt and other activities (trucks, excavators, bulldozers, vector trucks, drill rigs, sawcutting equipment).
Lighting will be used to illuminate the work area during nighttime hours.
