The effective date of the ILA would be January 1, 2011, and Chief Wiwel noted that the ILA with the Kent RFA does not obligate the City to join the RFA at a later date. The maximum total cost of the proposed ILA is $179,911. In the proposed 2011 Preliminary Budget, these same expenses would cost $293,478.

This was a follow up drill to Sound Shake 2008 which is based on hypothetical magnitude 6.7 earthquake on the Seattle Fault and an engineering study that was done on the effect of this within the community. The exercise was built on a timeframe of 24 to 48 hours after the initial shock and covered decision making, resource management, operational transition, recovery priorities and communications. Personnel from SeaTac Fire, Parks and Public Works performed surveys of simulated damage to city and tested various methods of communication and information flow to the City ECC and King County ECC via 800 MHz, VHF and HAM radios, analog phones and laptop computers over the course of two one-half day sessions. The damage assessment surveys went very well, however, some areas of improvement were identified during communications testing. Logistical support from the King County ECC was also found to be slow during the exercise. Next steps include reviewing and updating existing emergency operations plans in addition to more practice and training to insure that the City is prepared to respond when an actual disaster occurs.
