BUSINESS

Agency Presentation(s)

Nathan Phillips, Executive Director of South King Council of Human Services shared that SKCHS is a membership organization consisting of nonprofit agencies, community leaders and concerned residents who work to support one another cooperatively in building a strong safety net of health, housing and human services in South County. Members collaborate on important projects and coordinate strategies for addressing racism and poverty in the area.

SKCHS hosts monthly gatherings where members and allies teach each other about emerging issues. Using SeaTac funding, they also provide technical support to agencies through the Capacity Building Project and bring the human services community together for annual events and awards. This year's luncheon recognized SeaTac's own Scott Ostraner/Cedarbrook Lodge for his support of the community. Most of all, they are committed to making sure that there are effective and efficient services available to people in need within our communities.

Back to School fair – volunteers needed for back pack fill on August 12th, 11:00am at Rontra Freight. Registration tables – August 15th, 9:00am at Valley Ridge Park. Fair starts at 10am that day.

Summer feeding sites have doubled this year in SeaTac and around the county.
