“Get Your Green On” Event

The City held its annual “Get Your Green On” event at the SeaTac Community Center on August 14. The event was well attended with community members able to purchase rain barrels and compost bins at a discounted price, receive free kitchen counter food scarp containers complete with BioBags, and enter drawings for several great door prizes. Displays and tables were set up for the community to gather information on how to be more environmentally friendly and “waste wise” in their homes and businesses, how and where to dispose of hazardous products, and how to help protect our natural waterways.

Small business interests were addressed by Eirik O’Neal of Corporate Recycling Services, while residents could talk directly with Dan Borba of Natural Rainwater about setting up and using a rain barrel. Additionally, Code Compliance Officer Barb Canfield was available to meet and answer questions on code compliance issues. Resource Conservation/Neighborhood Programs Coordinator Trudy Olson answered questions for residents on waste reduction, resource conservation, natural yard care, the “Puget Sound Starts Here” campaign and how residents can assist the City’s stormwater program in protecting the waterways that flow into the Puget Sound.

For more information, please contact Trudy Olson, Resource Conservation/Neighborhood Programs Coordinator, at 973.4763.
